Squad Travels 314 Miles On Rescue Calls

Appomattox Rescue Squad traveled 314 miles during the week just past which included Labor Day. A total of 148 hours was donated to county use including 117 hours as "stand-by" with Jaycees of Appomattox and Squad members greeting motorists at the "safety stop" on Rt. 460. Emergency calls included three wrecks, 3 heart attacks, one hemorrhage, one broken toe, one bee sting, one stomach pain. An aerosol paint can exploded in a boy's face. Fortunately, he was not seriously injured. During the week, also, both vehicles were in Lynchburg one afternoon when the two-way radio sounded off with an emergency in Appomattox. Back came one vehicle – rapidly – to take care of the call. Squad members say they really appreciated the Jaycees' help on this holiday (and others) boosting road safety. And, likewise, they appreciate the donations to the Squad treasury made by motorists.

Hot Coffee For Cool Riders!

Two wheels or four wheels – all visitors were welcome over the Labor Day week end at the Jaycee - Rescue Squad shelter on Rt. 460 west, part of a nation-wide "Take A Break" safety campaign. Here Opal Paulette, Squad member hands a cup of coffee to ETN 3 Robert B. Teats and his wife, riding a Royal Enfield 750 en route Monday to Navy assignment at Norfolk. The Teats were married on July 4 and marked this most recent holiday with a cool ride eastward. Mrs. Teats reads a paper-back book as she goes – which says something for confidence in her husband's skill and the other drivers, as well. Jaycees and Squadmen spent 117 hours on stand-by at the shelter with telephone hook-up for calls. Motorists thanked them for the doughnuts, coffee, iced tea and soft drinks provided by Jaycees.

Formal Opening Set For New VBH Unit

Virginia Baptist Hospital formally will open Monday its new 10-bed Intensive Care Unit. The unit is part of a continuing program of the hospital to provide better comfounity health care.

Aiding in the plans for the new unit was a hospital committee, of which Dr. David Hill was chairman assisted by C. S. Elliot, administrator; Mrs. Donna Baber, RN, Director of Nursing; Dr. Thomas Stewart and Dr. B. Prescott Edmunds Jr. The committee, with the hospital engineering and maintenance department, the intensive care staff nurses and other hospital personnel, decided which type of equipment would best serve the patient in the unit.

Designed and built with the concept of Intensive Care nursing in mind, close observation, advanced medical and nursing techniques for better patient care have been given careful consideration in the new facility. It is furnished with modern equipment which was a prime factor in establishing a more up-to-date unit.

Each Hill-Rom bed has its own wall-mounted oxygen and suction outlets to permit use quickly when medically indicated. Each bed has an overhead examining light, night light and ceiling-mounted track to suspend intravenous solutions. The self-contained nursing station is equipped with a "hotline" telephone which signals the PBX when the nurse lifts the receiver. This alerts the operator to summon a physician to the unit quickly in an emergency, assuring the prompt and best possible care.

The nursing station is placed so that the nurse on duty may observe each patient during a 24-hour period as well as being close to the patient in the event of an emergency.

The construction of the new unit was carefully planned to insure quiet surroundings for the patient. A light hickory paneling has been placed on the walls with sound deadening insulation material behind it. The floors are covered with gold carpeting – a conductive type which prevents build-up of static electricity and also decreases the noise. Also keeping the noise to a minimum is an acoustical tile ceiling. The color scheme is completed with gold draperies at the windows.

Two single quiet rooms are an unusual feature of the unit. One is for patient isolation and the other for patients with coronary problems. Each is enclosed in glass so that nurses may keep a close watch on the patients. these two rooms are equipped and furnished in keeping with the decor of the unit.

Charles S. Elliott, administrator of the hospital, said, "Our purpose in developing this unit was to upgrade the present Intensive Care Unit, which has outgrown its facilities. I think we have an excellent unit now, staffed with nurses most qualified for intensive care nursing. We are grateful to our maintenance staff for building this unit."

Abbitt Vice President Health Council

Several Appomattox county leaders are involved directly with the Central Virginia Health Services Development Council, including Judge G. F. Abbitt, vice president; Miss Rosiland Reynolds, staff secretary and Miss Lelia T. Mayten, extension agent, who serves as a home economist interested in nutrition.

Established in September 1969 in compliance with the Federal Partnership For Health Act, the Central Virginia Health Services Development Council is charged with developing a process of planning for health programs in Central Virginia – Planning District II.

The governing bodies of Amherst, Appomattox, Bedford, and Campbell Counties, and the cities of Bedford and Lynchburg have designated the Central Virginia Health Services Development Council, the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency, to serve its collective area. In doing so, an area wide consensus has been achieved that there is a need for a coordinating body, representative of the whole, to be legitimately concerned with all elements of Health – Physical, Mental, and Environment Health, including Services, Facilities, and Manpower.

The purposes of the council are to promote and plan for the highest level of health attainable for every person in the area
